Pope Francis' Synodal Way: Three days after Pope Francis announced the Universal Synod, the Irish Catholic Bishops' Conference announced that the Catholic Church in Ireland was beginning a five-year synodal pathway culminating in a synod or series of synodal assemblies. The bishops brought together a committee (men, women, laity, ordained, and religious) as a National Steering Committee to discern and make recommendations as to what the synodal pathway might look like. However, as the engagement with the Universal Synod increased, the two processes have naturally overlapped and all the consultations, listening sessions, and discernment processes for the Universal Synod have become invaluable stepping stones and learnings for the Irish Synodal Pathway. The two processes are working in tandem with each other. Encouraged by the depth of engagement so far, all the submissions received from dioceses and other groups, as well as the National Synthesis, will be used as tools and stimuli for further outreach; to draw more people into the conversations, to bring in voices yet to be heard on the Irish Synodal Pathway. The Catholic Church in Ireland will also have to consider how it will bring together, reflect, and seek to implement the fruits and recommendations from the Universal Synod, alongside any Apostolic Exhortation issued by Pope Francis following the Synod. The synodal journey of the Catholic Church in Ireland has definitely begun but there is a growing realisation that this is a long-haul journey; that it is going to take time. Next steps in Ireland includes further engagement with clergy, religious, and laity as we invite them to reflect upon their own experiences of modelling and practising synodality, not only during this time of the Universal Synod, but in any aspect of our day-to-day mission and ministries as the people of God in Ireland. The National Steering Committee is also conducting research and carrying out a needs analysis amongst local leaders in order to develop leadership training and formation programmes that will support, increase, and improve engagement in the synodal process and strengthen the sustainability of the synodal pathway for the future. The National Steering Committee will also be making its recommendations to the Irish Catholic Bishops' Conference for the structure and content of the Irish Synodal Pathway and what resources and supports will be needed for its implementation. www.synod.ie

Covid / Transmissible Viruses:
 With Covid cases again very noticeably on the rise all are asked to exercise caution out of respect to those who are vulnerable to this disease. Covid remains a serious threat to the life and health of those who are vulnerable. Hand Sanitiser is available at the entrances to the churches and all are requested to use it. Facemasks are available at the doors of our churches for all who may wish to wear them; many do so in crowded settings because of an underlying medical condition or because of a compromised immune system. For the moment the sign of peace will not be re-introduced at Mass. All are requested to continue to receive Holy Communion in the hand, and so avoid any possible risk of salvia, and possibly a virus, being passed on to another person on the fingers of the Eucharistic Minister.
